

CORACLE MAKING COURSE

Come and spend 3 days building your own coracle or curach, or even design your own skin boat. All at a stunning location with fantastic views over the Usk Valley. Copious quantities of excellent local food.

Skin boats have been used by different cultures across the world for thousands of years. Here in Wales there is a different pattern for nearly every river. You will be working with willow grown on the farm and using traditional techniques to create your own skin boat with canvas cover and water proof ready to launch and enjoy on one of our local waterways.

In case of wet weather participants will be working under a large marquee.

For partners booking together, alternative willow structures can be created during the weekend, please ring to discuss your needs.

Course Tutors

Mick Petts is a landscape sculptor with over 30 years of experience working on a wide range of projects. He is best known for his work at Garden Festival Wales, the Millennium Coastal Park Llanelli and the Wildfowl and Wetlands trust.
 Working with willow is Mick's specialism and he has taught many willow courses nationally, he has a long standing liaison with Middle Ninfa Farm.

Richard Lewis has lived and worked at Middle Ninfa Farm with his family since 1994. They planted an acre of willow beds, built a challenging maze and many other structures.
 Richard manages the willow production on the farm and ran the first willow course in the spring of 1998 which have continued annually.
